Water Backup & Flood Endorsement Guide

Closing the two most common water-damage gaps in standard home policies. | Version 1.0 - August 2026

1. The gap

Standard home policies cover sudden internal water damage (a burst pipe) but exclude water that backs up through sewers or drains and flood water entering from outside. These are separate endorsements with separate limits and deductibles.

2. Water backup endorsement

Covers sewer/drain backup and sump-pump overflow, with limits from $5,000 to $50,000. Requires a working backwater valve or sump pit for limits above $25,000. Deductible: $500 flat.

3. Flood endorsement

Covers rising water from outside the dwelling, per the property's flood-zone rating. Zone X properties qualify for the preferred rate; zones A/AE require an elevation certificate. A 30-day waiting period applies from purchase - it cannot be added while a storm is forecast.

4. Emergency mitigation

Both endorsements pre-approve emergency mitigation (water extraction, drying, board-up) up to $5,000 without adjuster sign-off, consistent with the SecureHome Claims Handling Policy.
